Some area patients will soon be able to see multiple healthcare providers at one location. That due to a project from one of Dayton's largest companies.

Construction is under way for Premier Health's new building at 2066 W. Main Street in Xenia that's expected to open next year.

Primary care, and obstetrics and gynecology providers will practice in the 15,000-square-foot building. Dalo Construction is doing the work.

“This new, state-of-the-art medical office building will bring together providers under one roof who are currently located throughout Xenia and beyond,” said Diane Pleiman, president of Premier Physician Network.

This will see some providers relocating their practices and others splitting time.

Ob/Gyn of Greene County, 121 Progress Drive, Xenia; Premier Health Family Medicine, 193 Progress Drive, Xenia; and Premier Health Primary Care – Cloy, 6611 Cloy Road, Centerville, will relocate to the new building.

Providers who will be moving to the new building will notify their patients early next year when relocation plans are finalized. CompuNet Clinical Laboratory will provide lab services at the new building and close its service site on North Monroe Drive in Xenia.

Approximately four-five new positions are expected to be created.

The new building will operate with 24 people, including providers, support staff, a manager, and four CompuNet employees.
